Standard Milk Code Is Adopted For Marion by Health Board

A FARM IS RESTORED. Swarms of volunteers labored Thursday in a "Second Frontier" demonstration designed to restore in one day fertility of a 280-acre Ohio farm, near Newark. One of the first projects in the unusual demonstration was construction of a pond. It is pictured in an early stage, shortly after workers began gouging out the pond bed. U. S. May Buy Grain Direct From Farmers

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson today disclosed that the agriculture department is considering purchases of grain direct from farmers.

This by-passing of the grain exchanges would be aimed to curb the inflationary upswing of wheat and corn prices and minimize speculation resulting from the European aid program.

Anderson told of this possible step after a cabinet meeting at the White House which was reported to have been concerned largely with possible effects of the European aid program on prices.

He told reporters the government would "prefer to continue buying through the normal channels of grain trade."

"If we can continue to do so, (without prices getting out of hand) we will not have to adopt the farm acquisition plan," he said.

The agriculture department will have to buy the 570,000,000 bushels of grain which President Truman has set as a goal for shipments to Europe and other shortage areas this crop year. This figure is 100,000,000 bushels more than now appears in sight.

Saving Plan Launched

It is with the aim of making this extra 100,000,000 bushels available that Mr. Truman has launched his food saving program.

Anderson said direct buying from farmers—if ordered—might follow last year's commodity credit corporation buying program, adopted when growers apparently were withholding wheat from market in anticipation of higher prices or in an effort to hold down income tax payments.

If so, Anderson said, the program probably would contain the feature under which payment was not made until the following tax year. So that the transactions would not throw the sellers into higher tax brackets.

Anderson did not mention another feature of the 1946 program under which a 30-cents a bushel premium was held on wheat bought from farmers.

The cabinet meeting was monopolized by the new economic survey presented by Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of President Truman's council of economic advisers.

Nourse told reporters it predicts this country can meet Europe's food and dollar needs without runaway inflation.

Although the survey advises federal agencies to plan ahead for possible use of federal controls, should voluntary efforts fail to provide the needed grain and keep prices in hand, Nourse said he believes the country feels "a sense of seriousness" of the problem and will respond.

Liquor Dealers Called

The nation's brewers and distillers will get a talking-to tomorrow about using less grain, for beer and whisky, it was learned, and the restaurant and packinghouse industries have already been holding behind-scenes conferences with members of Mr. Truman's citizens' food committee.

Anderson and Charles Luckman, the $300,000 a year soap manufacturer who heads the food conservation drive, arranged to meet with the distillers' and brewers' representatives.

A spokesman for the distilled spirits institute said, "We're just sitting here waiting," to see what the meeting might produce.

Virtually cut off from corn during the war, the distillers expect a request to use low grades of corn, unfit for use as food. Beer and whisky producers used 35,600,000 bushels of corn annually before the war, but their con-

Gas Heating Ban Relaxed By Commission

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3 — The state utilities commission today relaxed slightly its freeze on new gas heating by permitting installation in new housing already under contract.

The commission also directed in a supplemental emergency order, clarifying its Sept. 16 temporary order, that consumers in territory not now under restrictions by their gas companies could install new equipment with the utilities' consent providing application to the company had been made by Oct. 10.

However, only 5 per cent of the state's million or more gas consumers were estimated to be affected by the Oct. 10 provision, principally in Portsmouth, Newark and Marietta.

The section of the order affecting new housing:

"No distributing utility shall supply or be required to supply new natural gas service to any consumer, present or prospective, in the state of Ohio for new or additional equipment designed to provide gas space heating unless proof is furnished to the utility:

"In the case of new construction of a building or buildings designed for residence or dwelling purposes, but are built by the owner contractor for owner, real estate subdivision developer or any other person or persons having a binding contract or commitments that obligations or commitments for such construction or building material or for gas space heating equipment have been

ONLY GRADE A TO BE BOTTLED

Regulations Set New Standards for Producers and Dairy Plants.

The new standard milk code for the city of Marion was adopted at a meeting of the city health board yesterday. It is effective immediately.

The new code, copied largely from the United States public health milk code, requires more supervision and more frequent inspections of farms and milk plants. Grading will be based on a percentage of compliance with regulations. If the farms or dairies are not up to standard, a notice is first given and if conditions are not altered, the milk is degraded. When it is lowered to a different grade, the producer must take a lower price.

Points are given for the health of the animals, condition of the farm, feeding lots, barns and equipment. The sanitary conditions of all equipment and of the washing and cooling facilities of the milk storage houses are also checked.

Basis of Classification

If the producer fails to comply with the necessary regulations, he is notified to make adjustments within a certain time. If conditions have not been remedied before a second check is made, the milk is degraded and the price lowered.

Under the new code, dairies will be inspected once a month and the farms about three times a year in the majority of cases.

Although the new regulations are effective immediately, dairy plants and farm producers of milk will have one year in which to meet the new requirements. City health officials said today that without this leeway the supply of milk meeting requirements for bottling would be seriously reduced.

Bottling Requirements

Under the new standards all bottled milk will be grade A and must be pasteurized. Dairies will be permitted to bottle only this grade. Lower grades, B and C, will be used for manufacturing purposes.

Since grades B and C bring a lower price than the top grade, health department officers point out it is to the advantage of the producer to meet the requirements for this type of milk.

Officials of the health department said the new code had been under study here for about two years. It adoption yesterday followed a final reading at the third consecutive monthly meeting.

In Effect Throughout Ohio

Operation of the code, which now has been adopted by sufficient communities to make it statewide, has been studied by the board in numerous localities. Officials point out that its adoption has not affected the retail price of milk in these communities.

A health department official said today some Marion dairies would be able to meet the new requirements within a short time and that others could do so within the one-year time limit. The same situation prevails in regard to farm producers.

The standard milk code was first considered by the board more than five years ago. No action was taken then however, because of objections raised by producers who claimed the price of milk at that time did not justify the additional expense to meet the new standards.

Adoption of the code yesterday met with no serious objections from producers, the health board office reported.

Monday Last Day for Registration Of City's Voters

Today, Saturday and Monday are the last days remaining for voter registration in Marion before the November election, Mrs. Nora Fetter, deputy clerk of the board of elections announced today. Persons who must register are:

▶Those who have become 21 since election last year.

▶Voters who have never registered since moving to Marion.

▶Voters who have not voted in the last two elections.

The board of elections office in the Marion Federal Savings and Loan building will be open on these three days from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. In addition to registrations the board will receive transfers of voters from one precinct to another. Voters who have moved to a different precinct since last voting must transfer at the board of elections office before they can vote this year.

Mrs. Fetter expects many registration and transfers this year because of the Ohio veteran's bonus bill that is up for ratification this fall.

Absentee balloting will begin Monday and continue until Oct. 30, Mrs. Fetter said. Voters who cannot be in Marion on election day must vote by absentee ballot if they want to vote at all.

TAFT WINDS UP WESTERN TOUR

Satisfied with Results but Still Undecided on Personal Candidacy.

By The Associated Press

ENROUTE EAST WITH TAFT, Oct. 3—Senator Robert A. Taft headed home for Ohio today satisfied he has succeeded in dramatizing to the west the record of the Republican congress but still publicly undecided about the personal political results involved.

Capping a 12,000-mile stumping tour with a stinging attack in Casper, Wyo., on President Truman's Democratic administration, Taft set out by train for Cincinnati and conferences with Rep. Clarence Brown (R-Ohio) which will determine the Ohio senator's future political course.

Brown, as campaign manager for Taft in the latter's role as Ohio's "favorite son," has been canvassing the rest of the country while Taft was making appearances in Wyoming, Idaho, Nevada, Washington, Oregon, and California.

Expect Hat in Ring

What Brown has to report plus what Taft has learned at first hand, is expected to add up to a formal announcement soon that the Ohio senator will seek the 1948 Republican presidential nomination.

With this objective obviously in mind, Taft already has laid the foundation for a vigorous attack on the Democratic administration. He also has written in speeches what friends say is the framework of a Republican program of his own.

Taft summed this up for his Casper audience last night in re-

ARMY CLEARS LT. GEN. LEE

Report Whitewashes Italian Theater Commander of Martinet Charges.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 — The Army high command today acknowledged "errors" in the Italian theater command, but labeled as a "wholly erroneous picture" a Scripps - Howard columnist's charges of mistreatment of enlisted men and high-living by officers under Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee.

Making public the results of an investigation touched off by writer Robert C. Ruark's charges, the Army released:

(1) A 12,000-word report from Maj. Gen. Ira T. Wyche, Army inspector general, who said he found only "minor discrepancies and irregularities"; (2) A memorandum from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff, and (3) A memorandum from Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall approving Wyche's report.

Writer Makes Statement

Ruark, whose original articles were published last summer, issued the following statement in New York:

"I have seen the Army's report of its investigation of my charges against Lt. Gen. J. C. H. Lee and I intend to study the report thoroughly before replying. In my own good time I will have the necessary answer to the Army's findings in the case."

In brief, Wyche's report was that the matters Ruark complained about were, when true, isolated instances. He said Ruark "took a few facts, half facts, rumors and untruths which he accepted as facts, and molded them into articles that carry implications of gross maladministration of the theater by General Lee and his staff."

Eisenhower, commenting on the "errors" uncovered, singled out "undue pressure" by commanders on subordinates to join fraternal organizations, "unsatisfactory conditions in the disciplinary camp," and "neglectful conduct" occasionally by some officers in requiring chauffeurs to "wait unconscionably long hours to suit

2 Licking County Farmers Get "New" Soil as Experiment Ends

By The Associated Press

BROWNSVILLE, O., Oct. 3—Bob Latham and John Rodman arose to their farm chores today and looked over 208 acres of land that was new again.

The two neighbors with adjoining hill farms on the western edge of the village of 200 population in southeastern Licking county, saw ground they could expect to double in production next year.

T. C. Kennard, Ohio chief of the U. S. soil conservation service estimated that the two farms would produce at least 100 per cent more food for Ohio and the rest of the country next year, and that their productivity would increase for five or more years with continued good farming practices.

This was the result of yesterday's "opening of the Second Frontier"—10 hours of concentrated work in restoring the two farms from the conditions in which generations of heavy farming had left them. Six hundred volunteers, mostly GI vocational-agricultural students from the neighboring counties of Perry, Muskingum and Fairfield, manned 75 tractors, 30-odd lime spreaders, dozens of trucks, and bulldozers, 'cats, crane and drag-lines, and carry-alls.

They plowed on the contour for strip cropping. They filled gullies, they built a farm pond and refenced the two farms.

From the air the whole scope of the demonstration was apparent. Two farms, in one little watershed of the Licking valley were treated as one farming unit—all to the end of making the top soil stay where it belonged, not mixed up in the waters of a spring freshet on its way to the sea, and toward making the same soil fertile and productive again.

The hills looked combed, rather than scratched with erosion.

Latham is a 24-year-old man whose father, George, now an invalid, purchased their 80 acres 12 or 13 years ago. Rodman is a 35-year-old ex-technical sergeant who put in 28 months in the European theater of operations for the army. He is married and the father of a seven-months-old daughter, Betsy. His wife's name is Leona. Latham's daughter, Susie, is four months old.

"This is the last year we'll have more than 12 acres in wheat or more than 12 acres in corn," said Rodman, inspecting the work.

To Start Rotation

He and Latham will start a four-year rotation next spring. Corn, wheat, and oats, with the rest of the farms in pasture and permanent meadows.

"This is going to be a Jersey dairy farm," said Rodman. "I've got nine head of Jerseys now and three Guernseys. Three Jerseys are registered and the rest grade A. They'll be replaced with Jerseys."

Latham said he planned to change his farm over from hogs to cattle, both dairy and beef.

"The farm just isn't suitable for hog raising," he said.

Their detailed farm plans are being worked out now by the people who made them the gift of the new farms—the Licking county soil conservation district and the U. S. soil conservation service.

"We'll go along with the way they fix it up for us," said Latham.

Thousands of people saw some of the demonstration. Estimates ran as high as 50,000. The state highway patrol said 40,000 cars were in this neighborhood. How many were U. S. 40 through-traffic, bound for the west or the east, couldn't be estimated.

TAFT-HARTLEY ACT USED TO BAN STRIKE

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3—Striking longshoremen at the port of Albany today called off their 10-day strike in compliance with a court order, the first issued under the Taft-Hartley act.

C. Testa, business agent for Local 1294, International Longshoremens Association (AFL), announced that members of his union and those of Local 1643 had been directed by Joseph T. Ryan, association president, to return to work.

Testa said the men would return to their jobs at 1 p. m. today.

An order, issued by Federal Judge Stephen Brennan in New York late yesterday, directed the Ila to suspend its strike at the port of Albany and the state barge canal.

Charles T. Douds, regional director for the national labor relations board, said the board asked the action on the grounds the ILA and its affiliates were violating sections of the Taft-Hartley act prohibiting secondary boycotts.

Douds said the ex parte proceedings, without hearings, were necessitated by the urgency of the situation. He said the strike had tied up shipments of grain and oil since Sept. 23. The petition said the Albany port annually handles grain valued at $60,000,000 and other commodities valued at $16,000,000.

The temporary restraining order is effective for five days and directs the union to appear in fed-

Marion To Join in National Observance Of Fire Prevention Week Starting Oct. 5

Marionites were requested to join the nation in the observance of Fire Prevention week starting Oct. 5 in a proclamation issued today by Mayor Harry L. Dowler.

Members of the six service clubs, a number of Marion hardware and chain stores, members of the Marion fire department and others have already pledged their support to the fire prevention committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, headed by John F. Smith.

In the national proclamation issued earlier, President Truman called to the attention of all the "tried and true three E's" as the means of preventing fires. They are education, enforcement and engineering."

At a conference on fire prevention held earlier this year, national, state and municipal representatives pledged themselves to continuing the fire prevention program for longer than just one week.

Every Day Job

Fighting fire outbreak through precaution is a 24-hour job and should be done every day in the year.

Mr. Smith stated today that the twin objectives of Fire Prevention week are to rid our homes and communities of the hazards which account for the majority of fires and to focus attention on the careless habits which take such a high toll of life and property.

The Marion committee includes John DuRua, Virgil Johnson, Rex Kilbourn, Albert Loeb Jr., Donald Cuthbert, Otis Porter, Earl Sayre, Robert Scott, E. O. Uncapher, safety-service director and Owen Sifritt, fire chief.

Annual inspection of the schools, industrial plants and business sections of the town will be conducted during the week Oct. 5-11 inclusive.

The service department has notified permit holders to make a special effort to pick up rubbish and waste piled in the residential section and city employes have been instructed to be on the lookout for piles of rubbish through the business section.

Placards Distributed

Five hundred large colored placards showing an infant who reminds spectators that he "isn't fireproof," and 250 printed streamers calling attention to the fire prevention week will be distributed by service club members to the various local stores and industrial plants for display. In addition more than 3,000 blanks will be distributed to the pupils in both public and parochial schools.

Through the cooperation of E. E. Holt, superintendent of public schools and the Very Rev. William J. Spickerman, V.F., in charge of St. Mary pupils contests will be held by each room.

The blanks will be distributed to pupils in the fifth through the ninth grades inclusive. Public recognition will be given the school whch has the largest percentage of blanks returned filled by the parents and recognition will also be given to individual rooms which rank highest.

Distribution of the placards will be made by members of Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, Y's Men's, Exchange and Junior Chamber of Commerce clubs. Jaycees, under Mr. Loeb's direction, will distribute the blanks to the schools.

As in past years, John Canoe,

BOUDREAU RUMORED TRADED TO BROWNS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3 — The Cleveland News said today that all-star shortstop Lou Boudreau "is through" as manager of the Cleveland Indians, and that Tribe President Bill Veeck has attempted to work out a player deal with the St. Louis Browns involving Boudreau and Vern Stephens of St. Louis.

In a story from Brooklyn, News baseball writer Ed McCauley declared: "Boudreau's countless admirers in Cleveland may as well resign themselves to the fact that Lou will not be with the Indians next year." * * * Lou challenged a determined Dutchman when he tried to tell Veeck under what conditions he would sign a contract.

"Boudreau was offered a one-year term. He demanded a longer contract."

McCauley also reported Veeck offered Boudreau $50,000 "if he would just play shortstop in 1948 and turn over the management to a field boss of Bill's choice." However, Veeck and Boudreau reached no agreement in conferences last week, and the "Flying

Why isn't more gasoline and fuel oil available in this area?

FAIR QUESTIONS and STRAIGHT ANSWERS

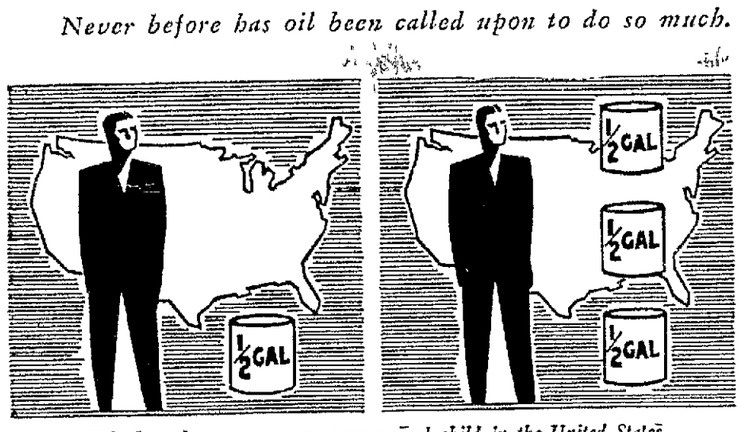
Q. Is there less fuel oil and gasoline available now than there was last year?

A. There is more available. Today American oil companies are producing and delivering more fuel oil and gasoline than last year, even more than they did in the biggest war year —1945. For instance, Sohio refineries are this year operating at a rate 27% over 1945. But the demand has increased by leaps and bounds. Some customers, unfortunately through no fault of theirs or ours, are getting less than they would like.

Q. Where is this great increase in demand coming from?

A. In this area the greatest demand increase has come in burning oils; for instance, in fuel oil for home heating. In addition, more gasoline and oil products are being used by more motor vehicles; by more conversions of industries to oil; by more gasoline-powered machinery for farms; by more transportation demands, such as Diesel locomotives and giant airlines; and by public demand for hundreds of new products —plastics, paints, insect sprays, chemicals, etc.—that are made with oil products.

Never before has oil been called upon to do so much.



Whereas, the average man, woman and child in the United States consumes a half gallon of liquids a day, oil products are being supplied at the rate of a gallon and a half a day for each of America's 145,000,000 people.

Q. Why are all these people turning to oil?

A. Because oil has demonstrated over and over again that it does so much so much better . . . so inexpensively.

Q. What is the problem in getting supplies of petroleum products to some localities?

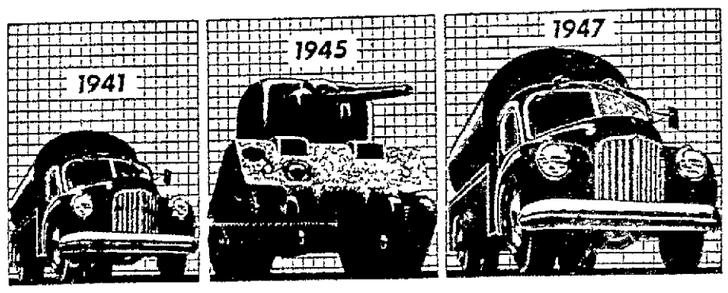
A. Transportation is the real difficulty. The major crude oil producing areas in the southwest are more than a thousand miles from Ohio refineries. Additional pipe lines are needed. They will go into use just as soon as the required steel and equipment can be secured.

Q. What is being done to improve the situation?

A. Everything possible. The petroleum industry has ordered more than four billion dollars worth of new equipment for production, refining, and transportation. Some of it has already been received. How soon the rest can be put to work depends on how fast other industries are able to provide the materials the oil industry has ordered to serve your needs.

Q. What relation is there between fuel oil and gasoline?

A. Fuel oil, especially for home heating, experiences a heavily concentrated demand in a short season. Keeping a warm home is a critical matter. Increasing the production of fuel oil for home heating prevents the making of more gasoline.



U. S Volume of oil products in biggest pre-war year (1941) 1,594,609,000 barrels

U. S. Volume of oil products in biggest war-time year (1945) 1,955,668,000 barrels

U. S. Volume of oil products this year (estimated) 2,092,400,000 barrels

Q. What advice has Sohio on installing new oil heating equipment?

A. Our best advice is not to install oil heat this season, whether it is a small room or so-called "space heater", or a larger central heating plant, unless you have some fuel oil supplier's assurance to give you a full winter's supply. As a necessary safeguard for present Sohio-Heat customers, Sohio is not taking, and cannot take on, any additional fuel oil commitments (announced as long ago as June 25).

Q. Why isn't the shortage the same among oil companies and areas?

A. Simply this: the demand on oil companies and in different areas varies. You can rely on the long standing competition between oil companies of all sizes, in all areas, for the assurance that progress is being made for the public's security and benefit.

Q. Will oil companies be able to meet future demands—to produce and deliver oil products at an even faster pace?

A. Yes. By drilling more wells than ever before and new efficiency in getting more of the oil out of each well. New ways have been found to get more and better gasoline and fuel oil from each gallon of crude oil—the result of rivalry among the refineries. Oil companies constantly compete in oil production, transportation and refining, as well as in marketing. It is this rivalry that has given America greater oil supplies, better oil products, at the lowest prices in the world.

OUR DEEPEST REGRET

Our deepest regret is the unavoidable inconvenience caused some good Sohio customers and friends.

If your Sohio dealer, distributor, or company service station is not open, or cannot deliver all of the petroleum products that you desire when you want them, please remember that he, and Sohio, are doing the best that they can under trying conditions.

For many reasons the supply of Sohio petroleum products is not necessarily uniform among stations or areas.

We hope you will continue to come to Sohio for your long mileage gasolines, careful services, and other products.

If You Own Real Chocolate Bar Hide It in Bank Vault—Quick

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—If you're addicted to chocolate ice cream sodas, you better cultivate a taste for raspberry. If you own a genuine five-cent chocolate bar, put it quickly with the family jewels in your safe deposit vault. Boy!

If I weren't trying to reduce, I'd be sore. There's monkey business in the cocoa trade, from whence comes by devious crushings the chocolate bon-bon of fond memory.

One of the wildest-eyed inflations in history—and there have been some dillies in the past—has raised the price of cocoa a cool 900 per cent. A pound of cocoa beans cost less than a nickel before the war; today, with luck, you may be able to buy 'em for half a dollar. Wholesale, I mean, before the first squeezing.

My cocoa expert at the agriculture department, who prefers his chocolate bars with almonds, has a good idea who's holding a pistol at the heads of American chocolate lovers. If he weren't afraid of getting in a jam with the state department, the United Nations, and no telling who else, he'd say so, out loud. As it is he's hoarding his last remaining box of chocolate creams and keeping mum for the record.

Can't Scare Othman

The international cocoa cartel, if any, can't scare me on account of those inches around my middle I'm trying to lose. Let it threaten to cut off my chocolate supply and listen to me laugh; here are the unsugared facts:

Cocoa comes from pods. These follow the pink flowers on the cocoa tree, which grows only where it's hot and humid, like British West Africa, which produces half the world's supply and Brazil, which grinds about 15 per cent more.

When there was free trade in cocoa before the war, an ordinary pound box of chocolates at any corner drug store cost 40 cents. When the fighting began, the British and Brazilian governments took over control of their cocoa sales. That was fair enough. The 40-cent box of candy went to $1.

Came the end of the war, but not the end of government controls in Africa and South America. The pound of candy went to $1.25. That was months ago. Asking prices of cocoa under the British and Brazilian bureaucrats have been soaring ever since. And our original 40-cent box of chocolate creams, if made with cocoa bought today, probably would retail at $2.50.

Have Some on Hand

That hasn't happened yet, because most candy factories have on hand a few weeks supply of chocolate bought on the upgrade. At the moment they aren't buying. They're hoping the price will collapse. The British and the Brazilians aren't saying anything. They're just sitting on a mountain of cocoa beans. Apparently, according to my chocolate lover, they're waiting for the American urge for cocoa to force sales at their price.

They seem to think (this is my man talking again) that chocolate to an American is as cocaine to a dope fiend. A cocoa bean contains one per cent caffeine and one per cent of another stimulating drug with a long name, but it's not that habit-forming. Not at today's price, it isn't.

So it is that most candy stores are beginning to feature pink bon bons and green, without any chocolate overcoat. The chocolate soda posters are coming down from the mirrors behind the drugstore fountains. Many a nickel candy bar is appearing with a shell of chopped up peanuts.

The new cocoa crop in the jungles is ready for harvest and something in the chocolate crisis is about to crack; I only hope it won't be my resolution regarding the old bay window.

GETS KEY POST. Called the "boy wonder" of the British Labor Government, James Harold Wilson (above), 31, is moving into the presidency of the Board of Trade. He will succeed Sir Stafford Cripps, who has been named head of the Ministry of Economic Affairs, a new cabinet post. Wilson has already held four major economic jobs in the British labor government.

Report Heavy Damage To Crawford Co. Crops

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 3—Continued cold nights which on two occasions within the week have brought sub-freezing weather and nightly frosts, have written "finis" to Crawford county corn and soybean crops, County Agent Russell L. Miller reported today.

Only about 35 per cent of the county corn crop was matured enough to stand the freezing temperature and frosts, it is estimated. No estimate on the loss in the bean crop could be secured.

The yield was also severely cut by late planting due to excessive spring rains, Miller said.

3 LEAD AMVET ELECTION RACE

2 Others Campaign for Commander in Voting To Be Held Sunday.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3—Street-corner seminars on the wide-open national commander contest brought delegates to the third annual convention of the American Veterans of World War II (AMVETS) nothing more than a choice collection of rumors today.

Actual election of the national commander is scheduled Sunday morning—the final item of convention business.

In early electioneering, declared observers, three of the avowed candidates took the lead. They listed Joseph C. Crespi of East Point, Ga., William A. Burkett of San Francisco and Richard D. Starks of Clarksburg, W. Va., as co-favored two.

Campaigning vigorously, however, are Ed Corpy of Des Moines, Ia., William Lee of Rockford, Ill., and Willard Shattuck of Fitchburg, Mass.

Mystery Man

Cast as the mystery man of the contest is banker Warren Wright of Chicago, who lost out last year to the present national commander, Ray Sawyer. An AMVETS national commander cannot succeed himself.

Wright asserts vehemently he isn't a candidate.

Delegates had their fling on the subject to compulsory universal military training yesterday and Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, a veteran of the 82nd Airborne division, hit the apparent convention concensus with this statement:

"We are toying with our national security every day we delay. We must not and we can not take chances with our freedom."

Not that military training had its way without opposition, as the delegates engaged with two speakers in a forum on the subject.

There was one voice which rose in the wilderness of approval, the voice of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis), an AMVETS member and a vigorous opponent of UMT.

One of Two Speakers

Senator McCarthy was one of the two speakers, occupying the platform with Brig. Gen. John M. DeVine, commanding general of the UMT experimental unit at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Use the money necessary to carry out UMT on training "fewer men and train them better," urged the senator.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) showed "guts and good common sense," Senator McCarthy declared, in opposing training.

Today's convention program was devoted almost exclusively to problems of organizations and the like, with a forum on the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill scheduled to provide an external highlight.

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz was to address the AMVETS in the afternoon.

SEEING DOUBLE. Ten sets of twins, ranging in age from 5 to 15 years, create quite an identification problem for R. W. Harper (right), superintendent of the Delton, Mich., school. Some have been attending for several years, but still it's tough.

Fire Damages LaRue Business Firm's Truck

A truck loaded with furniture caught fire at 6 p. m. at Curve and Latourette streets, resulting in an estimated loss of $275. The truck was owned by the Ford Furniture Co. of LaRue. Cause of the blaze was thought to be a cigaret discarded in the van, Fire Chief Owen Sifritt said. Firemen from the West Center street station responded.

CLASS MEETS NEAR WALDO

Mrs. Britton Ault was hostess to the Emma Berger Bible class of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church last week in her home southwest of Waldo. A potluck dinner was served preceding the meeting. At the business session it was decided to buy carpet for the church. Rev. R. W. Faulkner led devotions and Mrs. Albert Harruff offered prayer. Guests included Rev. and Mrs. Faulkner and family, Mrs. Oscar Bodley of Radnor, Mrs. Thomas of Richwood, and Miss Donna Ruth Ault. The committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Lyal Messenger, Mrs. H. U. Landes, Mrs. Charles Price, Mrs. William Schwadeter, Mrs. Iva Reamsnyder, Mrs. H. D. Keeler, Mrs. O. D. Myers, Mrs. Guy Coleman and Mrs. H. E. Epley.

Lakewood Girl Sues Policeman Father For Own Savings

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3—Life as a policeman's daughter was too harshly disciplined for a 20-year-old Lakewood girl, so she climbed out of the bathroom window and ran away, her common pleas petition said today.

Then less than a month later she married, said Mrs. Katherine Hasick, and now she claims her father, Patrolman Robert A. Paisley, refuses to hand over her wartime savings.

She asked the court for a $2,200 judgment against him.

Paisley, the petition said, always "brought into the home his campaign for law and order," imposing on members of the household "disciplinary directives and dogmatic supervisions."

She said she married Joseph Hasick, 33, at Covington, Ky., July 11 and that they needed the money for a down payment on a house in Florida.

She works at the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., and her husband is employed at City Ice and Fuel Co., she declared.

In the 14th century, fifty-million people died of the plague.

Moulton, president, read exerpts from a newspaper published 25 years ago. Carrying out the "silver" theme for the anniversary year, Miss Elizabeth Allwardt had a paper on "Silversmiths and Their Craft." Each member had to display some treasured piece of silver. Two charter members, Mrs. E. L. Middleton and Mrs. James Green had a symposium on remembrances of the past 25 years. Each member added to the evening's novel program by showing personal pictures which were taken about 25 years ago.

Guest day luncheon was held at the Westbrook Country club, Mansfield, by the Galion Sorosis club Wednesday. Members and guests were greeted by Mrs. John M. Kidd in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. S. Boyd. A book review was given by Mrs. L. E. Place, followed by bridge. The club prize went to Mrs. Albert Cox, and the guest award was taken by Mrs. M. A. Povenmire.

The October meeting of the Frauen Missions Verein of First Reformed church was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. W. Leich in Shelby. Officers reelected for the year were: president, Miss Hulda Klopp; secretary, Mrs. R. G. Sayre; treasurer, Mrs. Emanuel Rensch. The group voted to give $10 to world service work, to send canned fruit to the orphans' home, pack a box to be sent overseas, and other philanthropic work. Those who took part on the afternoon program were Mrs. R. R. Elliker, Miss Hattie Brick and Mrs. J. M. Schribner.

Ham Saved by Donahey For 18 Years To Be Used

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3—Eighteen years ago while serving as governor, Vic Donahey cured a ham so well he decired to save it for a special occasion.

But the years went by and the ham was still stored with a butcher when Donahey died in April of last year.

Tomorrow, the "special occasion" for the ham finally will arrive, although it won't be exactly as the late governor and senator planned.

It will be served at a dinner for his 10 living children and 19 grandchildren at the home of his brother, Hal Donahey, cartoonist for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, in Aurora.

"I guess he saved it so long he forgot about it," the brother said. "Anyway, I can't treat all of the senators we promised to [illegible] a party for the descendants."

DISTRICT D. OF U. V. MEETING HELD HERE

112 Members from Area Attend Annual Session.

The twentieth annual convention of District No. 6 of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War convened here Thursday at the Eagle hall with approximately 112 members and a number of guests present. Harriet Beecher Stowe Tent No. 48 acted as hostess for the convention.

Mrs. Pearl Schwartz, district president, also a past president of the local tent and the acting deputy inspector, presided for the meeting.

Officers to serve for the new year were elected as follows: Mrs. Rozella Babbs of Richwood, president; Mrs. Marie Johnson of Columbus, senior vice president; Mrs. Irene Jenkins of Circleville, junior vice president; Mrs. Ima Louden of North Lewisburg, chaplain; Mrs. Dorothy Cameron of Richwood, treasurer; Mrs. Florence Miller of Marion, patriotic instructor; Mrs. Pearl Schwartz of Marion, chairman of the council; and Mrs. Gail Montgomery of Marion, councilor.

Extends Greetings

Mrs. Terressa Arnold, president of the local tent, opened the meeting by extending greetings to the visitors. Later, she introduced Mrs. Gail Montgomery, who in turn presented to Major Harry L. Dowler in behalf of Harriet Beecher Stowe Tent an electrically cooled drinking fountain and two wheelchairs to be used at the Marion City hospital.

Other numbers on the program included a flag tribute by Mrs. Daisy Hollenbach, a reading by Mrs. Lola Stout of Cardington, and several patriotic piano selections by Mrs. Effie Noe.

A memorial service was held in charge of members of the Circleville tent, with the ritual exemplified by Tent 72 of North Lewisburg. This also served as their inspection with Mrs. Frances Lewis of Warren, department inspector, as inspecting officer.

Officers Present

Department officers present as guests included Mrs. Jennie L. Duffey of Zanesville, president, Mrs. Mary Bennett of Canton, senior vice president, Mrs. Ethel Lerner of Cambridge, treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell of Mansfield, chaplain, Mrs. Lewis of Warren, inspector, and Mrs. Lena Moore of Richwood, assistant guard.

A dinner was served at noon in the hall by members of the Eagles Auxiliary. A large red and blue tent topped with an American flag centered the table, and favors were miniature tents in the same colors.

GAS

entered into prior to the effective date of this order.

Must Furnish Copies

"Copies of such contracts or commitments must be furnished to and registered with the utility on or before 10 days after the effective date hereof together with such other facts as the utility may deem proper. If such building program or project covered by such contracts, commitments or obligations for which gas space heating service is desired is not substantially started by Jan. 1, 1948, gas service for space heating shall not thereafter be furnished in such instances."

Chairman Harry Miller of the commission said the purpose of the supplemental order was "to minimize the impact of curtailment of natural gas on the construction of needed housing."

The previous order banned installation of gas heating equipment in new homes and buildings and forbid the shift to gas from other heating fuels even in cases of "hardship" those for which automatic heat was required for reasons of health.

Subject to Further Hearing

Miller said the supplemental order was subject to further hearing scheduled next March 2 but had no expiration date and would continue in effect through the winter of 1948-49 if circumstances required.

The supplemental order also contained a provision for new non-residential buildings. In this a binding contract for the equipment must have been signed prior to today, and copies of the contracts must be registered with the gas company by Oct 11.

No change was made in the previous order banning new equipment in so-called hardship cases.

Strenuous protests against the original emergency ban were registered with the commission at a hearing last Monday by home builders and others.

See Threat to Vets

Mayor Thomas Burke, of Cleveland, and numerous gas equipment men of that city and its suburbs protested that construction of veterans' housing would all but be stopped.

They also contended that the additional burden provided by the planned installations would not seriously affect service of the East Ohio Gas Company because of its new storage facilities. The firm serves northeastern Ohio, principally.

At a previous hearing, representatives of utility firms serving Ohio contended that gas supplies would be insufficient to meet demands this winter unless the "freeze" was applied. They said sufficient gas could not be obtained from southwestern U. S. because of pipe shortage.

Under a 20-year-old rule of the commission, industrial gas consumers are cut off first when cold weather demand threatens a shortage of gas.

Most of Ohio's distributing companies obtain their gas by pipeline from Texas but must share it with other states.

The federal power commission now is attempting to allocate the Texas gas among the states, most of which already have banned new gas heating installations.

Are You Wasting Food?

LEST there be any misunderstanding, this comment, those that have preceded it on the same subject and those that may follow it should not be construed as disagreement with the general proposition of sending food to Europe.

Americans always have been willing to send food to the hungry; their charity is a trademark. But Americans always have resented and always should resent an undemocratic approach by their own officials when these worthies decide to influence public opinion.

In the present instance, some of these officials—notably President Truman and his immediate advisers—are taking the attitude that all Americans are wasting food and therefore can salvage enough from the waste to feed Europe. This is a gross slander. The only food being wasted in this country is by the minority that can afford to waste it.

The vast majority of Americans are so put to it to make shrinking dollars cover expanding grocery bills that they're scraping the bottom of the kettle. To ask them to salvage anything is to insult both their intelligence and honesty. Furthermore, it is likely to give Europeans a distorted idea of American bounty.

The Truman administration and its curious notions about perpetuating the war boom by robbing dollars of buying power have pinched the ordinary people of the United States hard. The only group that has improved its position is the easy-money minority, composed in large part of warboom beneficiaries.

For the spokesmen of an administration that has helped to impoverish its own constituents to take the publicity line that all citizens are wasting food is to make a blanket slur against the good sense of the ordinary people of the United States.

Lots of Rope

THE plaintive bleat of the British conservatives in their annual conference is vaguely reminiscent of the anguished cries from Republican national convention during the New Deal era. "Put us back in power," the Conservatives cry, "and we'll restore the good old days."

Behind the scenes in the meantime—also reminiscent of what happened here—there is a rebel philosophy that the only way to oust the Labor party is to beat it at its own Socialist game of sharing Britain's postwar poverty. Older Conservatives accuse the rebels of being no less socialistic than Clement Attlee himself.

This isn't likely to be seen by British eyes anyway so it may be all right to observe that the Conservatives will be lucky to get anywhere bleating that they want back in power. Certainly they do. Some of them would turn themselves inside out—would promise anything—to get there, as some Republicans were willing to do in this country.

But popular opinion in politics is largely a problem in time and patience. Right now, the British Labor party apparently is as unbeatable as the New Deal was in 1936. It may continue to be as unbeatable as the New Deal was in 1940 and 1944. But evidently the Labor party, like the Conservative party, like the New Deal and like every political movement, must hang itself in its own rope. The unbeatable becomes the beatable.

If it weren't for the necessity of trying to get elected, a political party's best bet might be to make certain the opposition got plenty of rope plus plenty of advice on how to hang itself—the one thing it can be counted on to do.

Current News

EXPERIMENTS with the transmission of ultra-high voltage electricity at the Ohio Power Co.'s property near Brilliant, O., herald the day when current will be available more economically and in greater quantities. By devising systems to carry as high as 450,000 volts, engineers are preparing to meet expanding industrial and residential needs. The demand for electricity grows each year. Such new devices as the so-called earth pump to cool homes in summer and heat them in winter will place tremendous loads on distribution systems once electric companies are able to handle them.

Since the development of alternating current, impressive steps have been taken in the long-distance transmission of electricity. The companies cooperating on the present experiments (call them current experiments and you are doubly right) at Brilliant promise even greater things in the future.

Newspaper Week

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Freedom Featured in Week's Observance.

THE American press is celebrating newspaper week, which comes annually at this time of the year. There are many special weeks during the year, most of which are to advertise a commodity or to support a cause and most of them pass without much attention. They do not really matter.

Newspaper week, this year, is different. It highlights, among the most important and critical problems that face the human race, freedom of communications, freedom of the transmission of facts and ideas, freedom to criticize, to doubt, to praise. The American newspaper is unfortunately becoming a unique institution in the western world. There was a time when all newspapers nearly everywhere were more or less free to function as their publishers and editors chose. In most countries, newspapers, magazines, the radio have become organs of government and party propaganda. The truth is not in them. They repeat what government orders them to repeat. They do not check the facts; they do not publish differences of opinion or of presentation; they do not scrutinize or criticize those who govern. They have ceased to be publications for the people; they are organs of deceits and infamy.

Facts Cannot Be Hidden

Our press remains free. Private ownership, even in cities where there is only one newspaper, avoids forcing a particular view or a particular recounting of a situation. In fact, it would be technically impossible for a newspaper publisher to keep from his readers facts of situations which do not suit him. Three great news agencies, remote and uncontrolled by local publishers, send through their copy speedily and objectively. Even were these news agencies to unite to deceive, they would fail. The large metropolitan dailies and weeklies maintain large staffs of correspondence within the United States and abroad and they usually do more than supplement the news services; they seek for a keener scrutiny, a sharper criticism than the news agencies care to provide. And weekly publications supplement these with independent reporting.

Besides, there is a huge corps of Washington correspondents, each ambitious to make that one great scoop that will bring fame and reputation. And there are the columnists. They are a curious lot, it is true, but they are set apart, with more freedom than any writers have ever known anywhere on earth, to delve for the truth. Some are disliked for their style; others, for the subjects they select. Some build large personal followings. Some risk their reputations for probity by sharpness of language. But taken all together, they are avenues for the presentation of differences; they are vehicles for bringing to the surface what might otherwise be obscure. They ferret out the hidden.

People Well Served

The cumulative effect of all this activity is that the American people are better served by its press than other peoples and although some newspapers may be slanted propagandistically and some writers may be serving special causes, altogether the press produces a fullness of presentation, a completeness of information, an inevitable uncovering of the truth. That is what freedom of the press means and requires.

There are those who fail to realize that the yardstick of freedom is the differences among a people. They seek to suppress differences. They desire unity, oneness, a marshalling of all forces in a single direction. That is totalitarianism and means an end to liberty.

For liberty means that one individual, one person should do what is his choice; shall speak what he desires; shall believe according to his concepts and shall take positions according to his will—and that he shall personally take whatever consequences come from his choice. Liberty of the press does not relate to the conduct of one newspaper or one writer; it does relate to non-interference by government with the vehicles of expression. It would be as wrong to suppress the "Daily Worker" as the "Wall Street Journal." It would be as much a violation of liberty to shut up a Communist as to shut up a Republican or a Democrat, or, for that matter, a Fascist. Liberty risks differences; liberty risks freedom of expression. Liberty is unafraid. That is why the American press is so important to our people and to a dark and frightened world.

They Will Thirst But Not for Religion

A Brooklyn church has been purchased by a social club which is installing two bars therein.

Apparently it's still going to be dedicated to things of the spirit.

Bars in a church . . . . Have they considered the possibility of a crap game in the choir loft?

One can almost hear a generous patron demanding: "See what the boys in the Sunday school rooms will have!"

It is to be hoped that all members of the congregation have been notified of the change. Otherwise they might think the new freedom in religion has been carried to extremes.

This Brooklyn business is symbolic of one of the things which is wrong with us today: Too many people who ought to be kneeling at an altar are out leaning on a bar.

Low Pressure Stuff

By HARRY A. McCREA

TURNING the radio dial recently, I came upon a voice charged with such frenzied urgency that it certainly must be describing the opening skirmish of Armageddon. But no, it was Harry Wismer, the Voice of Hypertension, broadcasting the season's first football game from Chicago.

High-strung people must take Mr. Wismer and Bill Stern, his opposite number on another network, in small doses lest they be reduced to quivering masses. Sphygmomanometers measuring blood pressure on the arms of such individuals have been known to pop right off when the subjects came within hearing of a Wismer or a Stern broadcast.

In England, the BBC broadcasts what is called the Third Programme for the minority which doesn't ordinarily find anything to its liking on the two main transmission bands. How about an American network specializing in low-pressure broadcasts for high-strung people?

All spectacular phraseology would be banned on these low-pressure broadcasts. "The Scarlet Horde" would be "the team in red jerseys." A "splendiferous assemblage" would be a "fair-sized crowd." "Wily mentors" would be just plain "coaches." In the event of an 80-yard run, the announcer would be allowed to raise his voice slightly if he apologized afterward.

In Virginia I knew an elderly lady, an invalid, who used to spend autumn Saturday afternoons listening in rapt horror to football broadcasts. She didn't know a double wingback from a fielder's choice but she used to sit, enthralled, bug-eyed, trying to visualize what happened when someone "smashed off tackle" or just what sort of monkeyshines went on when someone "ripped, hacked and battered" his way for a first down. Come 6 p. m., she was ready to retire, although she ordinarily didn't until 10. She died the day after last year's Army-Navy game. Coronary occlusion. Don't tell me she wasn't high-pressured to death.

I'm aware this low-pressure sports broadcast stuff won't be taken seriously because it's axiomatic that everything has to be jazzed up these days or people won't go for it. That's what the man say. And while sports broadcasters are putting on what are high-pressure performances to this fuddy-duddy, he readily concedes such broadcasts have improved immeasurably since the days when contemporaries of the late Graham McNamee would sometimes be reduced to spluttering incoherence by an untoward development.

Annoyed at the commercialization of Christmas, with its attendant maudlin exploitation, the late Heywood Broun once considered holing up in hills until the thing blew over. He never did, though. That's the way it is with us low-pressure people as the autumn Saturday afternoons roll around.

"It Will Take a Miracle"

By STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—The genius for anti-climax which is one of President Harry S. Truman's most notable characteristics has served to obscure the great importance of the decisions taken at this week's White House conference between the administration and congressional leaders. At his press conference after the meeting, the President seemed to say that while a desperate crisis is clearly upon us, the administration has no real plan for dealing with it. In point of fact, the administration has a plan. It is a plan which involves a calculated risk, a risk which is very great. Yet the plan has at least been made after a careful assessment of the political dangers of any other course.

What in fact emerged from the White House meeting was a complete schedule of action. Although it is, of course, subject to change, this timetable calls for the hearings of Senator Arthur Vandenberg's foreign relations committee and Representatives Charles A. Eaton's Foreign Affairs committee to end toward the middle of November. It is hoped that the house and senate Appropriations committee will complete their work by the end of the month. If the four committees can work on this tight schedule—and Vandenberg and Eaton will try to complete their work in a matter of days—then a special session of congress will be called on or near Dec. 1. And at the White House conference the President clearly indicated his hope that the congress will approve the desperately needed appropriation by Dec. 25, or by the new year at the latest. Asked by one of the congressional leaders who will take responsibility for calling the special session, Truman firmly replied, "the President of the United States."

Some Accomplishments

Thus the meeting accomplished far more decisive results than has generally been supposed. Truman himself set the grave tone of the conference. He spoke briefly of the nature of the European crisis, calling it the most serious which has ever confronted the United States and saying that the stakes for which the United States was playing in western Europe were higher even than those of the two world wars. Then Secretary of State George C. Marshall spoke, for no more than three or four minutes. Soberly and undramatically, he described the real meaning to this country of the economic and political chaos which would ensue in Europe if the United States failed to act in time. Characteristically unimpassioned though he was, Marshall left a deep impression on his listeners.

He was followed by Under Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett. At Marshall's request, Lovett filled in the factual background of the crisis. Gravely, with an impressive grasp of detail, Lovett talked and answered questions. Before he had finished, few doubts lingered of the reality of the crisis or of the need for action.

Yet grave doubts remained that action could be taken in time on the schedule outlined by the President. The President and his advisers had concluded that it was better to take the risk of calling the special session at the last moment, rather than to call it earlier and risk the wrecking of the whole American foreign policy by a congressional refusal to act. Yet it is privately admitted that even if the administration time table is adhered to, there is a fearful risk that American action will come too late. As Under Secretary Lovett has pointed out, there will be at least a month—the month of December—in which the pipeline will run dry, and in which the French and Italian people will be face to face with starvation. In December, the French and Italian Communist parties are expected to redouble their efforts.

Other Business

But will congress stick even to the risky Administration timetable? At the White House meeting, one of the congressional leaders asked the President whether, on the basis of his own experience as a senator, he could really expect the congress to act on so grave a matter within a mere three or four weeks. His point gained weight when, after congressional prodding, it was reluctantly admitted that the stopgap aid could not be the only business before the congress. It will almost certainly be necessary to request not only $246,000,000 to underwrite British dollar costs in Germany, but possibly as much as $300,000,000 for increased American occupation costs.

Thus more than a billion dollars will have to be asked, and as a mere first installment, from an economy-minded congress, its resistance already stiffened by ominous reports from home that more and more people are blaming high grocery bills on "all this foreign spending." Finally, by the time congress is called, the presidential election will be less than a year away. As one of the congressional leaders remarked after the meeting, "It will take a miracle."

Yet miracles have happened, when miracles have been essential. "We've got to remember," said the aging Charles Eaton, toward the end of the White House meeting, "that we will be taking action against the background of the most terrible crisis this country has ever faced. Let's remember that, and forget about November, 1948." Perhaps Eaton's advice will be followed.

Glacier Yields Deer 4,000 Years Old

By The Associated Press

OSLO—A 4,000-year-old reindeer extremely well preserved in a Norwegian glacier was found recently after the glacier broke up under this summer's record heat, the newspaper Verdens Gang reported.

A stone arrow pointed out from the breast of the animal. Archeologists decided the arrow was four thousand years old.

Such finds are very rare in Norway. Similar preservation of prehistoric animals are mostly known from Siberian tundras.

Imaginary Interviews: Andrei Vishinsky

Q. Mr. Vishinsky, I wish to interview you.
A. Very well, pound on the table with the gavel.
Q. In America, the gavel is not used in interviews.
A. That's one more proof of the decadence in your country.

Q. To begin with, what is the Russian attitude toward love?
A. Love is a capitalistic fake. Its purpose is to create disunity.
Q. But true and abiding love of one for another as in the case of Romeo and Juliet, for instance?
A. It is my government's position that Romeo's last name was Dulles and that Juliet was a Wall Street girl.

Q. Do you not think confidence and affection have a place in human relationships?
A. Only when applied with a hammer and sickle. Affection and confidence in the American sense are what bring on world conflicts.

Q. What do you think of the precept "Peace on earth to men of good will?"
A. My position is that the author of that is Josef Stalin. He has never been credited with it, however, outside of Russia.
Q. How does the famous parable of the Good Samaritan impress you?
A. What delegation is he sitting with?
Q. The Good Samaritan is the man who, seeing another on the road in distress, picked him up, placed him on his mule and carried him home.
A. I don't see how a deed of that nature could be considered without the veto power.

Q. How do you react to the axiom that there are two sides to every question?
A. Isvestia is coming out soon with an article denying that. All that is holding it up is the compilation of a list of Americans to fit a new list of denunciatory adjectives.
Q. Do you concede at any time that the other fellow might be right?
A. There you go trying to trap me into a statement which might put me in the embarrassing position of being fair minded.

Q. Would you give me your interpretation of cooperation?
A. Cooperation is all right up to the point where two or more people or states are involved.
Q. What do you think of the ideal of mutual trust and understanding?
A. I believe in it 100 per cent and you can tell every dirty, contemptible blankety blanket blank warmongering, skunk, liar, thief and fellow member of UN I said so.

Q. What are your views on temperate utterance, a fair regard for the views of others and a charitable attitude toward critics?
A. I believe in temperance of utterance if it takes my last low punch. I have a fair regard for the views of others no matter whom I excoriate. And I am as charitable toward opposing attitudes as a man can be when using both feet in the infighting.
Q. One last question, does Russia really want peace?
A. My good man, Russia wants peace if she has to start a new world war for it, you warmongers!

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: How are you getting along down in your part of the country with the drive to bring down prices? Fortunately, we are making no progress to speak of around here.

It looks to me as if people didn't know when they were well off. Whatever their trouble is they have short memories. As soon as they brought prices down, if they succeeded in doing it, they'd all turn right around and yip and yap to make them go back up.

If we had things planned right, prices would always be coming down and incomes would always be going up. Before long we'd be paying day labor $10,000 a year, but it would cost only $1,500 a year to live in style. A fellow could put all the rest of it into gold mine stock. The only trouble is that science hasn't found a way yet to pay day labor $10,000 a year without prices to match.

Prices are only the least common denominator of all the things that have to be added up to see how much we've got. This isn't economics and probably isn't good figuring, but it's common sense. About the silliest thing I can imagine is totaling reading in newspapers, magazines and congressional debates of 1947 is statements that prices are too high, made by people arguing that wages are too low....

Nobody likes to pay prices that seem exorbitant, but what I want to know is where prices would have to be to make everybody happy. Where is the place where all the buyers would say that was just exactly the right level for prices? All things considered, aren't people buying about as much now as they reasonably can expect to buy—and remember, I mean all things considered.

There are lots of things I want. There always have been, and I've been through three wars and a couple of big slumps. I'm sore because I can't afford a new car, a new house and a trip around the world. But I'm honest enough with myself to admit it isn't high prices that are to blame for the fact I am continuing to live at the same station I've always lived at—a point midway between poverty and comfort.

I only mention this because I am sick and tired of hearing people getting the highest rates of pay in the history of this country squawking about paying the highest prices.

State of Iowa Sits for Thumbnail Portrait

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

DES MOINES, Ia. — "What's new?"

... ...ics of Gordon Gam... picture buddy of Ernie ... is at present columnist and ... mentator for the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

Hal Boyle

Here's a thumbnail portrait of the tall corn state in "Gam's" anecdotes:

Iowa farmers are thrifty: one listed $1.50 depreciation on a $6 fountain pen in filing his income tax report. . . . They know what they want: one rejected a hotel room with bath because "I don't want folks runnin' in and out all night" . . . Another answered city dwellers' complaints on the high price of butter by figuring out it took 2,500 squirts from a cow to make a pound . . .

Iowans are independent: a judge offered to suspend a $300 fine for drunken driving. "No," said the defendant. "I'd rather pay. I don't want anything hanging over my head." . . .

The big league pitcher, Bob Feller, was halted by highway patrolman Napoleon Bonaparte Wilson for speeding. "I'm Feller, Cleveland Indians," said Bob. Replied the patrolman: "I'm Wilson. Highway Patrol." Feller got the ticket . . . The speaker of the house of representatives, farmer Gus Kuester, refused to wear a tux to the governor's inaugural, explaining 'Never wore one of the durn things before and ain't startin' now.' . . .

Iowans are folksy whacking away at burning timbers atop a building, a city fireman called down to a passing friend: "Hey, Joe, run over to the fire station, will you, and turn out the fire under the prunes." . . . A bus driver rolling down the street on which he lived, stopped, got out, thrashed his little son for playing in the street—then resumed his trip. . . .

Seeking a record of his birth 35 years before, a man went to a doctor in a small Iowa town. The old doc fumbled through his files, came up with a certificate and added: "Never got paid for that one. Twenty-five dollars still due. Want to pay for it?" The man paid . . . When Ernie Zeug, a hotel manager, ran for mayor of Newton, the washing machine town, he had the pies in his coffee shop cut in six pieces instead of eight. He got elected.

Iowans Are Poetic

Iowans are poetic: a high school boy sent his best girl a cheese on Valentine's day with this note: 'This cheese may be strong, but not as strong as my love for you." . . .

Some Iowa economic trends: a grocer extended a self-service pushcart to a customer. "Don't need one," said the customer. "Only got $5." . . . A father bought a fountain pen as a graduation present for his son. "Going to surprise him?" inquired the clerk. "I'll say," declared the father. "He thinks he's going to get a convertible" . . . A religious zealot delivering a private sermon to a grocer held up a long line of customers. "This fellow's trying to sell me heaven," apologized the grocer to the waiting women. "Take it," snapped a peppery little grandmother. 'It's cheaper than anything you've got."

That's Iowa.

BOND ISSUE DRIVE PLANNED AT GALION

Seek Support for School Levy in November.

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 3 — Several members of the Galion Citizens' School Committee met with the Galion Board of Education at its regular meeting, Thursday night, to discuss plans for the campaign for the school bond issue and the levy. The publicity committee of the Citizens' School committee, composed of R. M. Corry, J. C. Gay and Mrs. John Mortland, have decided to call a meeting of all P.-T. A. workers who are participating in the distribution of materials to Galion voters, for Monday evening, Oct. 13, at Senior High school at 7:15 o'clock.

The $615,000 bond issue will provide for construction of two new modern elementary buildings to replace the present North and South schools, in order to relieve over-crowded conditions, eliminate fire hazards, and provide needed improvements in the other schools, classroom furniture and instructional equipment, and construction of safe permanent bleachers for the athletic field.

The board authorized the assignment of four men for regular positions on the custodial staff who recently passed the civil service examination. They are: Lloyd Jacobs, East school; Grant Gifford, Junior High school; Robert Pryor, Junior High school; and Leonard Huber, Senior High.

The contract for the repair of the furnace at the East school was given to the Columbus Heating and Ventilating company after both Schill company of Crestline and the Huffman company of Mansfield decided not to make an estimate on it.

For cost of transportation, the board accepted the gift of a piano for the South school from Mrs. Forrest Hahn of Grove avenue.

TAFT

citing the record of the Republican congress.

He said this consisted of "carrying out the mandate of the people in four important policies—the reduction of expenses, the reduction of taxes, the elimination of war powers and federal regulation and the restoration of equality and freedom in labor management relations."

He tore into what he called "the wavering uncertainty and lack of principle" of the Truman administration in handling domestic and foreign affairs.

Picturing the state department as "disorganized and working at cross-purposes within itself," the Ohioan said that people he met all over the west wanted to know if this country is heading for war or peace with Russia.

Complaining that the people are completely ignorant about what goes on in Europe he said: "Congress itself is not advised and I could not feel confident whether the administration's policy is leading us in the direction of peace or war."

Contending that the Democratic party's policies in the long run "are dominated by the left wing because of the constant threat of a third party," Taft said the opposition "is bankrupt of ideas and consistent theory" in the domestic field.

Four Coats of Paint on Wall

Q. Can you advise some way to remove about four coats of water paint from plaster walls? Poorly applied, the paint has drip marks and thick and thin spots that make the wall appear rough. We want to take off all the paint down to the plaster and re-do with oil paint.

A. If the paint is one of the newer types — not calcimine — it may not be necessary to go to all the work of removing it. You may find that all you need do is to rub down the walls with coarse sandpaper wrapped around a block of wood to get a smooth surface. After dusting off the walls should be ready for paint. However, if you still want to take off the paint, dissolve three pounds of trisodium phosphate in a gallon of hot water, add a half-cupful of ammonia, and apply this on the walls. The paint should soften so that you can scrape it off. Be sure to rinse off every trace of the solution. Otherwise, if any trace remains, it will spoil the new paint. Get the trisodium phosphate at a large paint store, or at your grocer's under a trade name (cleaning powder that makes no suds.)

Chimney Condensation

Q: Our oil burner is eight years old and gave excellent service until two years ago. When the weather is cold, there is a dripping from the chimney where the smoke pipe goes in. My furnace repair man says it is condensation and he can do nothing about it. The wall around the smoke pipe is damp for about a foot. Also, during cold weather the outside chimney bricks have a frosty appearance.

A: I believe the trouble is in the chimney itself, and not in the oil burner. It is possible that the chimney has no flue lining, so that the bricks absorb and hold moisture. Also, a repainting job may need to be done on the chimney bricks, and a coat or two of waterproof, cement-base paint applied. A chimney mason could take care of the problem, and while he is on the job, let him examine the flashings around the chimney. There may be some leakage that should be taken care of.

Restoring Old Trunk

Q. We have an old trunk that is scratched and scuffed, with the brass work rusted. We want to remove the rust and restore he original dark blue finish to the leataer. How should we do this?

A: Clean the leather with saddle soap, following directions on the container. You can get the saddle soap at a leather goods store, where you should also be able to obtain a preparation for redyeing the leather. A shoe dye might be used. For the brass work, first polish until bright, wipe with benzine (be careful of fire!), then coat the metal with spar varnish or clear lacquer.

Application of Paint

Q. In applying flat oil paint what kind of stroke is preferable —a straight up-and-down stroke or a semi-circular stroke? I notice that professionals use the latter, or so it would seem from the brush marks on the finished walls.

A. Paint is applied in strips from ceiling to floor, of a convenient width, but it should not be so wide that the paint on the edge will begin to dry before paint is applied on the adjoining strip. Each brushful of paint is spread in small squares; the brush is slapped to the center of the square and paint is spread in all directions to make a smooth coat. The last strokes should be in one direction—on the wall they would be up-and-down.

Newel Post Is Split

Q. The newel post at the foot of our stairs has come apart, being split across at the upper, rolled part. How should this be repaired?

A. If the "scroll" has broken off, drill two or three holes, large enough to take a small diameter dowel in each half of the pieces. Mark the places where the holes are to be made so that they will fit together. Cement the dowels in place with strong glue and bind the parts together until the cement is dry. A carpenter or repairman could do this job very easily. If the "scroll" is only split, fill the crack with wood putty mixed with an oil stain to match the color of the wood. Finish with varnish to match.

EISLER AND WIFE ORDERED DEPORTED

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 3—Hanns Eisler, Hollywood song writer, and his wife, have been ordered arrested for deportation proceedings on the basis of testimony last week befoer the house committee on unAmerican activities, Committee Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) announced in Washington last night.

The committee said warrants for their arrest were issued by the justice department's immigration service. Up to an early hour today there was no word from the U. S. marshal's office here as to whether the warrants had been received here or whether an attempt had been made to serve them on the Eislers who live at the exclusive nearby beach community of Malibu.

The house committee referred the Eisler case to the justice department a week ago, recommending that the Hollywood composer be prosecuted on perjury and passport fraud charges and then deported to his native Germany. The committee wound up hearings in Washington with a report that even "the most casual investigation would have exposed Eisler beyond the shadow of a doubt as an international Communist agent."

At the Eislers' Malibu home it was reported the couple had "gone out to dinner" last night and by a late hour they had not returned

PALESTINE HARD HIT BY STRIKE OF ARABS

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Oct. 3—A general strike of Palestine Arabs, beginning at dawn in protest against the proposed partition of the Holy Land, paralyzed all Arab sections today and sent hundreds of thousands pouring into mosques for prayer.

The streets were crowded with Arab pedestrians, since all Arab buses stayed in garages and pickets ranged around bus stops to prevent Arabs from riding in Jewish buses.

Falastin, Christian-Arab newspaper in Jaffa, appeared with a heavy black border around its front page and carried headlines reading: "Palestine day today is funeral of all enemies of Arab world."

$90,000 Bid Is Submitted To Clear Delaware Tract

By The Associated Press

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct 3—Edith M. Wheeler of Wyoming, Pa., operator of the Wyoming Valley nursery, submitted a low bid of $90,000 today to clear some 1,700 acres of land in the reservoir area of the Delaware, O., flood control dam

The Huntington district corps of engineers said four other bids were received, ranging to $162,530.

The government's estimate for the work was $101,659.

ROBBERY SUSPECTS ARRESTED AT CANTON

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., Oct 3 — Police said today that two men arrested after a gun battle at a busy street intersection would be questioned in connection with the $300,000 robbery at the Mounds club.

Detective Sgt. Ray Fitzgerald and Detective Clarence Rhodes captured the pair last night after an exchange of shots in which one of the gunmen was wounded slightly in the head.

Fitzgerald, who said they were driving a car stolen in Cleveland, identified them as Tony Maxim, 32, an ex-convict wanted here for parole violation, and Edward Ponset, both of Cleveland.

The officer said the battle started when he recognized Maxim sitting in an automobile and the man opened fire. Both policemen jumped out of their car and began shooting.

"They came out with their hands up" after five or six bullets hit their car and Ponset was wounded, Fitzgerald added.

The Mounds club in Willoughby township of Lake county was held up early Monday and its safe and 300 patrons robbed

Cleveland-Bound Circus Loses 30-Foot Cannon

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3—A circus troupe "lost" a 30-foot cannon coming here from Pennsylvania.

The Hamid-Morton circus troupe reported the vehicle carrying the weapon became separated from the group on the trip and yesterday asked police to help locate it.

The cannon is used in a "human cannonball" act.

30 Crestline Lots To Be Given Free To War Veterans

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, Oct. 3—Thirty building lots in the southern section of the city are being offered free of charge to veterans of Crawford, Marion, Morrow or Richland counties who will make their homes in Crestline.

Michael Bibich, local meat market operator, author and playwright, will give the lots away at 3 p. m. Oct. 12, at the site. The lots are valued at $500 each and gas, water and electricity are readily available Bibich said. Each lot measures 50 by 150 feet.

The Crestline man said he was making the offer in furtherance of his belief that man should love his home, his town and his country.

Mr. Bibich recently donated a building in Crestline to be used as an addition to the Crestline Emergency hospital.

LITTLE CHANCE SEEN FOR PALESTINE PACT

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 3—Diplomatic authorities said today that the United Nations appeared to have but slight chance of working out a settlement for the Jewish-Arab conflict over Palestine which would be acceptable to both sides and avert all danger of a shooting showdown in the Holy Land.

The outcome most generally expected here is that some solution will be proposed which will be more agreeable to one side than the other and the United Nations will have to take responsibility for enforcing it with some sort of international policing arrangement That presumably would mean contributions of armed forces by member nations for that specific purpose.

The Jewish Agency for Palestine told a United Nations special committee yesterday that it was prepared to accept "in sadness and most reluctantly" partition of the Holy Land if that was the only way to obtain establishment of a Jewish national home.

TRUMAN AIDES SPLIT OVER GRAIN EXPORTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 — A sharp conflict has developed among top administration officials over whether the government should step up immediately its purchases of wheat for export to shortage areas.

The agriculture department says no. The state, commerce and war departments say yes. The controversy is expected to be laid before President Truman for settlement.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson wants to go slow on government buying until it can be determined whether the public is cooperating with Mr. Truman's "waste less" food program.

In other words, Anderson wants to hold export buying to a rate of 470,000,000 bushels this crop year for the time being. This is the quantity of grain which the cabinet food committee has said the United States could safely spare at present rates of consumption

The state, commerce and war department officials are insisting that purchases for export be stepped up immediately to the 370,000,000-bushel level. Anderson argues that such action might push grain prices far above present levels.

Both the President and his citizens emergency food committee have recommended that savings be made by feeding less grain to livestock and by more consumer care in waste of bread and other direct wheat products.

the social convenience of the officers."

Admits Mistakes

He called it a "serious mistake" that minor offenders were locked up where they could have contact with major criminals and said "an active day of 17 hours" for prisoners did not conform to his convictions of what is proper.

Both Eisenhower and Royall agreed that no action is called for beyond what has been taken—calling the attention of the command to the findings by Wyche.

"Those isolated cases," Wyche asserted, "are too few in number and not of such character as to reflect properly the true overall conditions within the theater."

Recommends No Action

Wyche concluded in a 12,000-word report covering his recent inspection, inspired by the Ruark columns, that no further action is needed. He said he had informed the Mediterranean theater command of the "minor discrepancies and irregularities" he found "for further investigation and such corrective action as may be indicated."

The investigation ordered by Eisenhower grew out of a series written by Ruark while Lee was Allied commander in Italy. Since then the withdrawal of American forces from the area has started, and Lee has returned to the United States for retirement.

Wyche said Ruark alleged in general that "while General Lee and his staff are living in lavish and kingly luxury, the enlisted men are ill housed and ill fed and are subject to mass intimidation, to frightful misuse of the privileges of rank, to brutal, degrading and humiliating treatment, and to outrageous violations of personal integrity."

Lavish Waste of Money

Ruark also gave the impression Wyche said, that "there have been flagrant misuse of government property and lavish waste of taxpayers' money, all of which are condoned and fostered by General Lee."

Wyche said that the "brief period" Ruark spent in Italy would "not of necessity preclude the possibility of his having been told a great many things by a very few people, but it certainly indicates that he had not sufficient time to inquire into the things told him in order to verify their veracity or authenticity."

Wyche found that "although General Lee and members of his staff have taken advantage of certain perequisites and privileges customarily accorded officers of his and their rank, the exercise of their perquisites and privileges does not fairly indicate that they are living in a lavish or luxurious manner, or that they have abused the privileges of their ranks."

SLIGHT DIFFERENCE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 3 — Cook Cleland received $20,000 last month for traveling 404 miles per hour—but a 45-mile-an-hour pace netted him a traffic court summons today. The difference in rewards, according to Patrolman Joseph O. Jansen, was due to the fact that the 45 M.P.H.. figure was set in an automobile on Euclid avenue—instead of in a souped-up Corsair plane on the Cleveland airport pylon race course.

IRREGULARITY MARKS TRADING IN STOCKS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—Stocks continued to shift over a slightly uneven course in today's market with profit realizing on the recent recovery tending to restrain many leaders.

Brokerage quarters reported some further bidding and short covering by professionals on the idea that the fall rally could be extended substantially.

The pace slowed after a relatively fast opening with low-quoted issues coming out in sizable blocks. Fractional irregularity ruled near midday.

Among resistant stocks were Chrysler, Youngstown Sheet, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sperry, Caterpillar Tractor, Western Union, Public Service of N. J., American Smelting, Du Pont, Owens-Illinois, Schenley and N. Y. Central.

Occasional laggards included U. S. Steel, General Motors, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, Anaconda, Kennecott, Dow Chemical, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co and Pennsylvania Railroad.

Restaurants Oppose Plan

The National Restaurant association has told Luckman that it opposes "meatless days" because they "cause endless trouble and don't save anything," but has suggested several other means of food-saving.

A program already under way, said Robert J. Wilson, executive secretary of the restaurant group, calls for the listing of surplus food products on restaurant menus, prompt use of leftovers, careful control of portions, and the serving of bread and butter only when requested.

A spokesman for the American Bakers association reported new efforts are being made to abolish "consignment" selling of bread. This is a system under which bakery companies supply grocers with extra loaves in an effort to boost sales volume, then pick up the stale leftovers next day.

Meat packers' representatives, it was learned, have furnished Luckman with studies showing that about 34,000,000 bushels of grain could be saved annually if livestock producers would return to the feeding practices of the pre-war years.

Higher Temperatures Predicted for Nation

Higher temperatures for most of the country were predicted today as the tail end of a mass of cool air touched into parts of the middle, North Atlantic and New England states today.

Temperatures in some sections of the midwest soared to as high as 95 yesterday and federal forecaster H. S. Kenny in Chicago said mild weather extended from the southern Rockies to Lake Michigan.

Nimitz Says Arms Limit Must Await "Good Will"

(More about AMVETS on Page 4)

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3—Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz asserted today that further limitation of U. S. armaments "must wait until the good will of nations is exemplified by deeds as well as words."

In an address prepared for delivery at the third annual convention of the American Veterans of World War II (AMVETS), the chief of naval operations listed three steps he said should precede such limitation

"First, it is important that satisfactory peace treaties be written so as to eliminate at the outset much of the cause of a future war."

"Second, we must have reliable safeguards which include inspection

"And finally, we must have reasonable assurance that the united nations is a going, workable organization with effective military support."

FOOD BUDGET HEADS FOR HIGHER LEVEL

By The Associated Press

The food budget for many of the nation's consumers appeared headed for further juggling today as a general increase in the price of bread was indicated and further hikes in some meat prices seemed certain.

Continuing their steady climb this week, hog prices advanced in Chicago and some other markets yesterday. At Chicago the top was $30.25 a hundred pounds, 25 cents under the all-time high of last Sept. 11. The average price advanced to $29, as compared to the previous high of $28.75 and $3 above the average three weeks ago.

At South St. Paul market steers reached $36, a new record for both lots, while the top in Chicago's cattle market also was $36.

Several cities reported retail bread prices had been boosted one cent a loaf and bakers cited higher prices for fluor, lard and other ingredients as the reason for the hike. Among cities reporting increases were Minneapolis, center of the country's flour industry, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, O., Flint, Mich., and Jacksonville, Fla. Indications were that similar boosts would be made in Chicago and other cities. Present pound loaf prices generally are 14 cents for white bread.

December wheat hit a new record high of $2.94 in Chicago yesterday but dropped later to close at $2.83¾ to $2.86. Corn declined 3 cents a bushel, the one day limit.

In Memory Of
*My dear husband, John N. Kelley, who passed away Oct 3, 1936
I am sad within my memory,
Lonely is my heart today.
For the one I loved so dearly
Has forever been called away
I think of him in silence
No eye may see me weep,
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep
Some may think that I have forgotten,
Some may think the wound is healed,
But little do they know the sorrow
That is in my heart concealed.
Oh! what would I give to touch his hand,
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile
It would mean so much to me
Just when his days seemed rightest,
Just when his hopes seemed best,
God called him from amongst us
To his eternal rest
Sadly missed, but God knows best
His Wife and Family.

PROFESSOR AT O.W.U. IS KIWANIS SPEAKER

Stresses Importance of Interest in Public Affairs.

Dr. Ben Arneson, professor of political science at Ohio Wesleyan university in Delaware, spoke before Kiwanians Thursday in their weekly luncheon meeting program at Hotel Harding.

Having recently returned from a meeting in Washington, D. C., called for a discussion of "Democracy for the United States," Dr. Arneson talked on "Take A Greater Interest In Public Affairs."

He stressed the necessity of voting at all primary and general elections, and emphasized that in an off-year election, the majority of the people do not vote. He also stressed the fact that one should study and learn about the persons elected to the national and state legislation.

Democracy will not work unless we are continually interested in public affairs, Dr. Arneson stated, and added that ignorance of public affairs is dangerous. He urged the group to take a greater active part in local politics.

John W. Watters spoke briefly on the Community Fund campaign which will get underway soon in Marion.

Introduced into the club as a new member was Lou Brenecamp. Guests were L. MacNail and Richard Doughett of Marion, H. S. Kirkpatrick of Delaware, and Merritt Giles of Elyria.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert today added two members to the bi-partisan state board of agriculture, increasing the total from 10 to 12 as authorized by the last legislature.

The new statute required addition of a veterinarian and the governor named Dr. C. W. Fogle of Leipsic, to meet that provision. Fogle is chairman of the Putnam county Republican central and executive committees.

The additional member is Clifford Elliott, a Democrat of Mt. Victory, Hardin county. He is a farmer and livestock breeder.

Both were named to a six-year term starting last Wednesday.

The governor also reappointed Walter J. Buss, Wooster Democrat to a five-year-term on the board, and named to a similar term Frank Cooperider, Democrat of Glenford, Perry county, to succeed C. L. Mitchell of Mansfield, whose term expired.

Cubs Beat Zanesville, 2-1

Frank Smith Bests Cy Lambert in Duel Between Two of League's Best Hurlers

By DON C. BURTON

Two of the Ohio State league's best pitchers, Frank Smith of Marion and Cy Lambert of Zanesville hooked up in a hurling duel in the third game of the final playoffs at Lincoln park last night with Smith emerging the winner, 2-1.

A single that took a bad hop over the head of Dodger shortstop Maurice Mikesell scored Wally Rasmussen and Dwight Maxhimer to give the Cubs the winning runs in the eighth inning.

The victory gave the Cubs a two to one lead over the Dodgers in the series with two more to be played here Saturday. Should the Cubs win both the series would be over. If other games are needed they will be played at Newark Sunday afternoon. One of the games here Saturday will be played in the afternoon and the other at night.

The two clubs will be the guests of Harding High school at the football game with Uhrichsville tonight. Tomorrow afternoon the Presidents will attend the game at Lincoln park.

Frank Smith, a recent graduate of the Cub bullpen who pitched a near-perfect no-hit game against Lima, was in rare form. He allowed the league champs only four hits, three of which were of the doubtful variety. The only solid smack was a double by Dabek in the ninth after Bob Shuford and Roy Hollingshead did an Alfonse-Gaston act in allowing a pop fly to right by Don Hilbert fall for a double.

A great throw by Dwight Maxhimer cut off a Zanesville run in the first inning. Hilbert led off in the opening round with a grounder which Forbes fumbled. He was forced at second by John Pulcini. Pulcini went to third on a perfect hit and run single to right by Ken Lien. Hollingshead had just vacated the spot when Pulcini broke for second. Ray Dabek then hit a fly to center and Pulcini was doubled at the plate on Maxhimer's perfect throw to Burbrink.

A perfect throw from Don Hilbert in right field got Roy Hollingshead trying to score from second on a single by John Smith in the Marion fifth. Holly had reached second on one of the seven walks given up by Lambert and a wild pitch.

The Cubs won the game in the eighth. Wally Rasmussen and Dwight Maxhimer walked. Manager Burbrink popped out to first and Bob Shuford struckout, then Gene Bobzean hit a fast skipper to Mikesell near second base. Mike came up with the ball and when he started his toss to Lien at second the ball rolled from his hand and all hands were safe with the bases filled and two out. Jim Forbes then hit a grounder that took a bad hop over Mikesell and Rasmussen and Maxhimer scored.

As Mikesell came down from his leap after the ball he fell and injured his ankle and had to be carried from the field. During the time out while first aid was being given Mikesell, Bob Bartholomew of Zanesville, who recently sat out a 30-day suspension from League President Frank M. Colley for throwing his bat into the stands at Zanesville, got into an argument with Umpire Monroe and was banished from the Zanesville bench.

Zanesville Player Suspended in "Rhubarb"

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3—Outfielder Bob Bartholomew of Zanesville today was fined $25 and costs, and suspended for the remainder of the series for shoving Umpire Willis Monroe in an argument in the Ohio State league game at Marion last night.

The punishment was levied by League President Frank Colley, who was at the game.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3—What a relief! . . . First to see those downtrodden Bums win, of course . . . and then to get out of the chilly atmosphere of Yankee stadium into the colorful, more-human confines of Ebbets field. . . . The difference is that baseball in Brooklyn still is a sport; in the stadium it's an amusement enterprise . . . and finally, what relief pitching! . . . The press box announcer said it: "The winning pitcher is Casey—by vote of the assembly." . . . The rotound restaurant keeper earned plenty of vote the way he stopped the Yanks in the last three innings when it was beginning to look as if no one could stop the Bronx Bombers . . . And Joe Page turned in just a brilliant a job of clutch hurling as the fifth Yankee flinger . . . When the Yanks threatened to tie it up in the sixth, someone remarked: "Well, it looks as if we'll have a new ball game." . . . The answer was obvious: 'It ought to be.' . . . After taking nearly two hours to score 15 runs in the first 4½ innings it was time to start over.

Most prophetic remarks of the day came from Yankee Manager Bucky Harris as looked from the dugout toward the comparatively sort right field wall: "If they hit the ball today like they did yesterday, we'll have some fun here." . . . Bucky must have been talking for both teams.

Uhrichsville Booked at Stadium As Irish Tangle with Calvert

Parents' Night Crowd Expects Third Straight Prexy Victory.

Uhrichsville is the target for tonight in the Harding camp.

Harding gridders will loose a salvo at the Tigers before a Parents' Night crowd eager for a third straight Prexy victory. H-hour is set for 8:00 p. m. at the Stadium.

Uhrichsville rates as underdog in the battle, but is expected to give stiffer opposition to the Prexies than enemy teams of the two previous Harding conflicts.

Prexy Coach Pete Howison sees the Tigers in the bag if the Prexies play the ball they've displayed so far this year.

Uhrichsville broadsides in the form of two fast halfbacks and a stellar tackle are expected to thunder in a Tiger counterattack. Coach Harry Maurer's Tigers looked good in a 12-0 win over Newcomerstown last week, said Harding scouts George Whitehead and John Luginbuhl.

Fullback John Baldauf Out of Local Lineup with Injury.

The Irish travel to Tiffin tonight to try for their second football win over Tiffin Calvert in nine encounters.

They'll be without the services of regular fullback John Baldauf in the starting lineup. Baldauf sustained a cut mouth in the game with Carey last Friday and his mouth has become infected this week. Bill Merchant will probably start at fullback for the Irish despite his absence from St. Mary practice sessions the first three days this week.

Coach Gene Fetter is making no predictions about the outcome of the game but promised that the Irish would fight all the way. He calls Calvert the toughest team remaining on the Irish schedule.

Brooklyn Nips Yanks, 9-8

Bums Win Wild Scramble with Casey On Mound; To Gamble on Taylor Today

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3—Saved by the bell and stout Hugh Casey from dropping their third straight, the ever-hopeful Brooklyn Dodgers sally forth to battle against the New York Yankees in the fourth World Series game today behind sore-armed Harry Taylor who hasn't started since Aug. 18.

Manager Burt Shotton's pitching corps, consisting chiefly of Hugh Casey and a lot of guys named Joe, just managed to get home with a 9-8 decision yesterday, under the friendly influence of familiar Ebbets field. They didn't look like world champs, but they were a big improvement over Wednesday's woefully outclassed misfits.

Fresh out of starters, Shotton now has to gamble with Taylor. The bow-tied Dodger skipper, discussing his pitching plans for the first time in public, revealed that it will be Hal Gregg if Taylor isn't ready.

Performed Wednesday

Gregg, an inconsistent right-hander, performed in passable fashion in Wednesday's rout after relieving Vic Lombardi.

Pete Reiser, whose center fielding has been far from brilliant but who nevertheless is a key man in the attack, may be out of the lineup as a result of a severely sprained ankle, received when he was trying to steal second base in the first inning of yesterday's game.

The season record of Bill Bevens, who will start for New York, is not calculated to strike fear into the hearts of the Flatbush heroes but he may come up with the best pitched game of the series.

In a sense Bevens' pitching "life" will be at stake for there is no secret about the fact that some of the Yankee brass soured on Big Bill due to his consistent failures when help was needed most.

Guesses Wrong

Manager Bucky Harris guessed wrong yesterday in Bobo Newsom whose demise came suddenly during a six-run Dodger spurt in the second inning. They scored four on Bobo and two more on reliefer Vic Raschi before he could get them out. A single run in the third off towering Karl Drew and another pair in the fourth at the expense of Spud Chandler, who was wild after a long period of inactivity, gave Joe Hatten nine runs to work on—just barely enough.

Even before the Brooks pushed their total to nine in the fourth, the Yanks had rocked the speedy lefty for four runs, two each in the third and fourth. After Joe DiMaggio rode a towering two-run homer into the upper stand seats in left center field, Hatten soon was on his way. Ralph Branca, who pitched four perfect innings in the opener before he blew up, was waved in from the bullpen.

FRANK SINKWICH SIGNED BY COLTS

Ex-Georgia All-America To Play with Team Sunday.

By The Associated Press

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3—"Fireball" Frankie Sinkwich — "bad knee"—and all—has signed a contract with the Baltimore Colts in the All-America football conference, and the former University of Georgia backfield great is expected to don a uniform for the Baltimore-San Francisco game here Sunday.

In announcing the signing, the Colt management, said Sinkwich arrived from Athens, Ga., last night and may run through practice with the Colts today.

Last week the New York Yankees placed Sinkwich on the retired list at his own request. Frankie said a bad knee was the cause of his leaving.

A Colt spokesman said doctor's reports showed the knee would probably stand up.

He said Bob Rodenburg, president of the Baltimore club, had made a deal with the Yankees before Sinkwich was signed to a Colt contract. Terms were undisclosed.

Two of his old Georgia backfield teammates—Lamarr "Racehorse" Davis and Andy Dudish—are now playing with the Colts. Fred Luttz, who designed the famous "mask" Frankie wore to protect a broken jaw during his last season at Georgia is now trainer for Baltimore.

A high school sensation at Youngstown, O., Sinkwich rose to be an All-America star for Georgia in 1941 and 1942.

He played for the Detriot Lions in the National league in 1943. The following season he was voted that circuit's most valuable player.

of play—a record—were required before 33,098 fans learned that Casey's right arm had been raised in victory by decision of the scorer. The defeat was Newsom's without argument. Eight pitchers were used and a total of 26 hits rattled off the walls.

Shortly after Branca came into action, the Yanks narrowed the gap to 9-7 and loaded the bases on a double and two walks but Bill Johnson popped to Eddie Stanky.

Trailing only 9-8 because of Larry Berra's tremendous seventh inning pinch homer, the first in series history, the Yankees led off the eight with a walk to Tommy Henrich and a single by Johnny Lindell.

Two on, nobody out and Joe DiMaggio up. But "DiMag" tops only a half swing at Casey's pitch and the ball hopped to Ed Stanky for a double play that killed the last Yankee hope.

Harris followed Newsom Raschi, Drews and Chandler with Joe Page who shut out the Brooks in the last three innings. It was the second time in three days that the game wound up in bullpen battle of Page versus Casey. Only this time Casey won.

Liquor Question to be Theme at Churches.

Two Marion county churches will present dramatic programs Sunday night on the liquor question, it was announced, each with a cast of characters made up of local persons and of officials of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league. Title of the play is "The Black Flag." It will be put on at the Caledonia Methodist church at 7:30 and at the Martel Methodist church at 7:45.

Action and dialog present both sides of the question, arguments which are presented on behalf of the liquor interests and answers to these by the other side. Those in charge voice the view that this is a particularly timely subject in view of the fact that a number of communities are to vote on the policy of local option at the November elections.

The cast at Caledonia includes Rev. S. E. Knetzel, pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. Melvin Keeran, pastor of the Church of Christ, Richard Campbell, Miss Joan Mericle, S. P. McNaught superintendent and attorney for the Anti-Saloon league, and Rev. H. B. Pilchard, field secretary of the league.

At Martel the group will be Rev. Charles H. Edgar, pastor, Kenneth Pangborn, Everett Doane, Miss Pearl Loyer, Rev. D. H. Deen and G. M. Hunt field secretaries of the Anti-Saloon league.

BUCKEYES ENTRAIN FOR BIG 9 OPENER

Fesler Takes 39 Players to Purdue Game.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3—Ohio State's Buckeyes entrained today for Saturday's Big Nine conference opener against Purdue's Boilermakers at LaFayette, Ind., and were to practice later at Butler university field.

Coach Wesley Fesler planned to start the same eleven that opened with a 13-7 victory against Missouri last weekend. He took a 35 man traveling squad to LaFayette.

Bob Brugge, left halfback who injured a thigh muscle before the season opened, will be in uniform at Purdue, but only for emergency use, Fesler said. Bob Switchart, another left half, out of action with a bruised rib, also will make the trip, Fesler disclosed.

Mike Cannavino was named first reserve behind Jim Clark at left halfback, and Fesler declared "This Cannavino is just liable to run wild at any time."

Fesler listed the Buckeyes itinerary for the trip.

Leave Columbus at 9:45 a. m. arrive at Indianapolis at 1:30 p. m.; workout at Butler field returning to dinner at 5:30 p. m. Saturday; leave Indianapolis at 10:25 a. m. for LaFayette, after return to Columbus from LaFayette immediately after the game.

Pass defense was stressed again yesterday in the Buck's last full two-hour drill. The Buckeyes face a heavy air attack from Purdue's Bob DeMoss.

SPORTS LAUGHS

All baseball men agree that the late Walter Johnson had a fast ball that was more than just hard to hit. To some players it was actually frightening.

A story is told of a rookie who got a good look at Johnson's fast one. The first pitch was inside and too close for comfort. It was a ball. The next one zipped across the heart of the plate before the young player could even get set.

Johnson followed it up with another fast one right over the inside corner. The ump bellowed "Strike two" and the rookie turned on his heel and walked off.

The ump shouted "Hey, come back here, that's not strike two." And the rookie answered: "You take the third one."

In many species of birds, the male's life-mate takes sitting turns on the eggs.

No-Communist Pledges Called Nub of Taft-Hartley Act Tiff

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—Here's an explanation of the present excitement about unions, Communists, the new labor law, and the labor board.

It all revolves around an I'm-not-a-Communist oath. But, before going into that, here's a little background.

The AFL and CIO are not themselves, unions. They're organizations of unions. The AFL is made up of more than 100 unions. There are 41 in the CIO.

James Marlow

Each of those individual unions of course, has its own officers. But the AFL and CIO have officers, too.

The AFL has a president, William Green, a secretary-treasurer, and 13 vice presidents who are presidents of AFL unions.

The CIO has a president, Phillip Murray, a secretary-treasurer, and nine vice presidents who are presidents of CIO unions. So much for background.

Last June congress passed the new labor law, the Taft-Hartley act. It did a number of things, including this:

It recognized the national labor relations board (NLRB). The job of the board is to settle labor disputes between employers and unions.

Must Protect Belligerents

In short, it must protect employers from unfair dealings by unions and unions from unfairness by employers.

But, to get this protection of the board, the unions must comply with the new law in several ways. One of them is this:

Before the board will give any union protection against an employer, its officers must swear they're not Communists.

Unions with one or more Communist officers don't get board protection. There are several such unions.

(Unions don't violate the law if their officers, even though not Communists, refuse to swear they're not. They just don't get board protection.)

But along came Robert L. Denham, chief counsel of the labor board. He has an important job. He investigates complaints that come to the board.

Issues Ruling

He issued a ruling which said:

1. It's not enough for the officers of an individual union to swear they are not Communists.

2. Before any AFL or CIO union can get board protection, the top officers of the AFL and CIO must also swear they're not Communists.

That's where the present excitement started.

The top officers of the CIO so far have not taken the I'm-not-a-Communist oath. So, to date, no CIO union can get board protection.

Some top AFL officers were willing to sign but John L. Lewis, an AFL vice president and president of the coal miners, refused to sign.

So, because Lewis has refused to go along, to date no AFL union can get board protection.

Labor leaders are bitter against the new law anyway. Lewis' move, as made clear in his Coal Miners' Journal, is part of his general attack on the law. The journal says:

"Labor must resist with all its strength now while this strangling legislation is in its infancy. It cannot comply with one section of the law and hope to make effective war against other sections."

Differ In Viewpoint

All AFL leaders don't share Lewis' views. Daniel Tobin, head of the powerful AFL Teamsters' union, is threatening to quit AFL unless its top officers sign the no-Communist statement.

Some other AFL leaders feel the same way. They want board protection. Right now employers can get board protection against AFL and CIO unions. But not one of those unions can get board help against employers.

The AFL opens its convention in San Francisco Oct. 6. The CIO convention starts in Boston Oct. 13.

Maybe at those big meetings the AFL and CIO will make final decision on whether their top officers will sign, or not sign, the no-Communist oath.

Meanwhile, the whole problem may be solved for the unions by the five-man labor board itself. This board can overrule Denham and say:

For unions to get board protection, the top officers of the AFL and CIO don't have to take the no-Communist oath.

Any individual can get the protection simply by having its own officers swear they're not Communists.

The board will have a chance to make such a decision for or against Denham, on a case which has just been brought before it.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

May Need a New Tooth

There is no record that any of Sherlock Holmes' clients ever suffered from temporomandibular joint syndrmoe, and that's something of a pity, because it would have given to friend Dr. Watson a perfect opportunity to turn the tables on the famous detective by a mystifying act of his own.

Imagine Holmes discomfort had Watson, after listening to a patient who complained of growing deafness, head noises and dizziness, turned and said: 'My dear Holmes, what this man needs is a new false tooth."

And yet the doctor would have been exactly right, if, in addition, the patient had added that all his discomforts were made worse by chewing.

These may seem strange symptoms to be corrected by new dentures, and yet the whole thing becomes clear once you understand the situation.

The upper and lower jaws are put together with a joint like a hinge, the two parts of which are made to fit very precisely. To some extent, the joint is kept in position by the teeth and sometimes its balance is disturbed by the pulling of a molar tooth, particularly where the extraction results in malocclusion, or improper meeting of the upper and lower teeth.

When this happens, the bones of the joint no longer fit together as they should. Too much free play is allowed, and this, in turn, results in the wearing down of some of the joint surfaces.

Because the joint of the jaw is so near the ear, pressure is likely to occur on the delicate nerves running to the structures of the hearing apparatus; hence the severe dizziness, without any sickness to the stomach or vomiting, which may sometimes be the only symptom of the joint disorder.

The same thing may account for many of the other symptoms—head noises and pain around the ear made worse by chewing, the feeling that the ears are blocked up, and difficulty of hearing. Besides these, there may also be some pain or burning in the throat, cheek, nose or tongue, and occasionally a patient may suffer from headache over the temple.

A definite diagnosis may be made if the symptoms disappear within 15 to 30 minutes after a piece of cork or rubber tubing about one-sixth to one-fourth inch thick is put between the front teeth. This, of course, relieves the pressure on the joint.

Insofar as treatment of this disorder is concerned, the services of a dentist are most important. All that is needed is to have the patient fitted with the proper dentures to correct the malocclusion and thus take the pressure off the joint.

Of course, disturbances of the joint may arise in other ways, such as from injuries, or inflammation produced by arthritis. Sometimes bits of tissue may become loose in the jaw joint. Here X-ray is most helpful in making a diagnosis.

In these cases, if no other method of treatment, such as the application of heat, brings relief, operative treatment may be required.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. M. S.: Can a child be cured of stubbornness and thick headedness? How can you make him understand?

Answer: After a child grows older, one should try to explain things to him rather than ask him to be blindly obedient. Also if the child observes proper example in the home where he is being raised, he will soon lose his stubbornness.

Many children are stubborn when they are very young.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I SAW Katharine watching Mary narrowly, and realized, with her, that our charge was putting on an act, although I did not doubt her joy in Dr. Twitchell's verdict.

But I also knew that she could not be at peace with herself or the world once she learned how Noel had reacted to the old physician's counsel.

That was something, however, which I could not tell her. Noel himself must be the one to give her that particular bit of news, and I braced myself to parry the questions which I was sure she meant to put to me.

"Do you want to hear what the old darling told me?" she demanded.

"Indeed I do," I told her, and she gave a little laugh which anyone not knowing her intimately would have sworn held genuine mirth. But I knew what uneasiness lay beneath that laughter, and consoled myself only with the unexpected favorable knowledge of Noel's reaction to Dr. Twitchell's ultimatum which soon would be hers.

"The old doc was almost ribald," she said. "He gave me to understand that a child for me mustn't be even a 'gleam in my husband's eye' for quite some spell to come. He said I'd been through too much this last year for him to think of sanctioning motherhood for me.

Best Possible Medicine

"Then he proceeded to take the rest of my thoughts apart," she rattled on. "According to him, going on with the play is the best possible medicine for my nerves, also my lights and liver, to say nothing of my morale, or is it morals? And he added that if I showed ordinary commonsense, and the devotion to a child which, he was pleased to say he knew would be mine, that there was no reason in the world why I should give up my work—or my child.

"He was very decided," she said, "and of course I'm sitting on top of the world. Except"—her too brilliant eyes fixed mine—"that I don't know how Noel is going to react to all this."

"I told you not to worry over that," Katharine broke in sharply. "Noel will see the light, I am sure."

Her expression said that he had better, or else, but she said nothing more. Indeed, she had no chance, for Mary put an insistent question to me.

Would See Noel

"Dr. Twitchell said he was going to see Noel when he left me" she said. "The way he said it, made me think he was preparing to take my poor boy into the woodshed, and tan his britches with a razor strop. Did he see him, do you know?

"Yes, he saw him," I told her.

"Where?" she queried.

"In my study."

"Who arranged it?"

"I did," I told her evenly. "Dr. Twitchell said he wished to see Noel after he had seen you, so I telephoned Noel and asked him to come to my study. I did not think it was necessary to trouble you with it."

"It wasn't, you darling 'Mrs. Fixit'!" she said, giving me the name with which Dicky sometimes teases me. But the affectionate smile she flashed me redeemed the epithet, although I still sensed the uneasiness in her.

Another Question

"Did you see Noel after the old doc left?" she asked next, "and were there gashes on his back?"

"Mary! Mary!" I expostulated laughing, in order to gain time. "You will be the death of me!"

"Never mind the camouflage," she said, and I told myself that her keen perceptions had not been dulled by her long illness. "Do you know what Doctor Twitchell told Noel, and what my boy's reactions were?"

All her love for her young husband and her frantic anxiety to know his state of mind were in her voice, and I had to steel myself not to tell her what I knew or reminding myself that it was Noel's right to tell her, and hers to hear his revelation from his own lips.

"No, I do not know what Dr. Twitchell told him," I falsified boldly.

"And you wouldn't tell me if you did!" Mary declared impudently. "All right, all right! I'll get it out of Noel. But you can tell me, can't you, how Noel looked and acted?"

No Conniption Fits

"As your grandmother would say, he wasn't 'throwing any conniption fits.'" I told her calmly. "He appeared most interested in dolling himself up for his dinner with you. He didn't want to disturb the Philip Veritzens, so I went down to your apartment, got him some clean linen, socks, a tie, and his shaving things. When I left them on the table in my study, the water was splashing in my bathroom, so deduced he was having a shower, and I left. Further, deponent sayeth not. You'll know all about it from himself in a few more minutes. Shall I order dinner for you?"

"Better not until I see Noel," she said. "We may want champagne and nightingales' tongues sauteed, or we may be gnawing bones down on the rug. I'll let you know after he comes up here."

"Then I'll order ours, and Dicky's, if you'll tell me what you want, Katharine," I said, with careful casualness. "Faith is eating at the Philip Veritzens."

"She's getting to be a regular diner-out that child," Mary said, and then started as a knock come on the door of the sitting-room.

"Oh-h!" she said flutteringly "Do you think that's Noel?"

FREIGHT CAR PROBE HINTED BY SENATOR

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—An investigation to determine why builders have not reached a goal of 10,000 new freight cars a month may be made by a senate committee before the next session of congress, Chairman Reed (R-Kan) said today.

"This would not be a conference, it would be an investigation," Reed told a reporter.

If hearings are held, the Kansan said the senate interstate commerce subcommittee he heads may ask car builders to furnish statements of the amount of steel they have on hand. Steel companies probably, he said, will be asked to tell congress how much they have been furnishing for car building and for repairs to old cars.

Reed, also a member of the senate appropriations committee, said he had canceled plans to accompany it to Europe Oct. 8 because of his plans to start hearings soon on railroad reorganization proceedings.

He said he hopes to conclude his investigation of railroad reorganization activities by the interstate commerce commission and the courts "as promptly as possible," then call a meeting of the committee considering the freight car situation.

The Greeks were the first to give each ship its own name—usually that of a woman.
